AMBIGUITIES DUE TO VERBAL CONSTRUCTIONS

Translation Options is the no-hassle function for dealing with ambiguities generated by verb conjugations in Spanish. Many verb tense, mood and person conjugations from totally different verbs are identical, and you will need an assistant to tell them apart, which is where Translation Options comes in.

Take for example the following sentence:

Lo siento bien.

Both the verb SENTIR (feel) and SENTAR (seat) have the same structure in the first person singular indicative: SIENTO. This phrase could very well mean “I feel it well” or “I seat you well.” (or “I establish it well, if it refers to the other meaning of SENTAR = ESTABLISH).

Of course, in this case, the final decision will be yours because it depends on the context, but our amazing TO function will tell you exactly what the options are.
